	kingdoms # rule & justice amsoft You are in control of the single emperor of a small empire. Each year, every member of your committee requires six sacks of corn to provide enough food to survive and it usually requires three sacks of corn. Each year, you must allocate your corn to plant corn on one acre at least. Using less than 50% of the available land causes your land to become barren, similarly using more than 50% of the land increases the available available land. At the start of each year you must decide how many sacks of corn you will allocate to planting on the land and to feed the population of your empire. The amount of corn that is provided from the fields is dependent on the quantity of corn planted and the quality of the harvest. Every member of the population who cannot receive six sacks of corn will die through starvation while every six sacks of corn in excess will make one new person to be born. However, the population cannot increase more than threefold. If more than 50% of the empire's population dies then because of an assassination attempt! Press any key to continue in response to any user messages at the base of the screen. At the end of your period of control, a score will be awarded dependent on the quality of your leadership. A record of the best score is kept. Press any key to commence - Good Luck!
